Epilogue

"The moon shall raise,
The leafs will fall,
Silver will shine
And
Flowers will bloom,
Put them together,
And the salvation will come"

-Do you know what it means, Cinderpelt?- asked a ginger tom cat

-I'm sorry Firestar, it's what StarClan told me, the day will come when we finally understand it- said the gray she-cat

The prophecy couldn't leave Firestar's mind.

-I'll go to the Moon Stone, maybe I can find answers there- said Firestar

-Do what you think is right- said the medicine cat

-let all cats old enough catch their own pray and gather here beneath the high rock!!- called Firestar
Every one gathered beneath the hight rock, wondering what the líder would say
-I'm going to the moon stone tonight- announced Firestar.
Everyone looked confused
-Brambleclaw, Cloudtail, and Sandstorm will come with me, Graystripe, you are in charge of the camp- said Firestar.
All de warriors went back to their jobs, or what they where doing.
-Moonlight, I want to talk to you- said Firestar
-yes, I'm coming- said the she-cat
She padded toward Firestar's den, she entered
-did you need me?- the she-cat asked
-yes, look, if Graystripe need help in something, you help him, okay?- he told the she-cat
In her interior, she knew that Firestar was warning her not to get in his way, as many moons ago she did trying to protect him.
-I know that you don't trust me, Firestar- she told her old friend and leader
-Why do you think that?- asked Firestar
-I was only trying to protect you!!- said Moonlight before she break into a run and go out of the camp through the back of the nursery
-wait! Moonlight!!- called Firestar, but she was already gone.
-she's going to drive me crazy...- Firestar murmured to himself

Moonlight ran as fast and far as she could, obviously not trespassing another Clan's territory.
-why can't he trust me?- she asked in her mind
-I was only trying to protect him- she Ran and arrived to Four Trees. She kept moving in the direction of Snakerocks, she leaped to the highest rock in one jump, and laid there. She fall asleep, but a voice woke her
-Hey, Moonlight, wake up- a familiar scent entered her nose trails.
-Spacepelt?- she asked

-yes, now come, everyone is searching for you, just be prepared for Downsky's scolds- he warned in a purr
They leap of the rock and went to camp
-of all places did you choose there?- asked her brother in the way to camp
-yes, I like that place- said Moonlight
-anyway, we're here- he lead the way by the gorse tunnel.
-Moonlight!!!! Where were you?!?!- asked a furious Downsky
-I'm fine, I'm fine- she told her sister
-Yes, I know that!!!- said Downsky with fury
-sorry- Moonlight apologized
-Sorry catches no prey!- spat her sister
-can.. you know, scold me anywhere else, everyone is watching- she asked
-I don't care!!!- she spat back before taking her by the scurf and entered the place where they kept the prisoners
-Hey!!! That was way more embarrassing than scolding me out there!!!- she complained
The camp was in complete silence, looking at the place they both entered
-anyway..... you... can continue with your... er... activities- said Graystripe trying to end the silence
Every one kept doing what they were doing in silence.
The night fall, and silverpelt shone in the sky. Moonlight made her way into the Warrior's den and curled next to her best friend, Springleaf.
Morning came, Moonlight woke up, and went hunting.
She opened her mouth to scent, she catches a vole scent, she followed it, and drop into position she stalked it until she was close enough.
-wait another second... and... now!!- she thought, and jump on the vole, with a bite, it was dead. She put some leafs to hide it, and went to find some more to catch.

The day passed and Moonlight arrived to camp, she left all the pray she had caught on the center of the clearing. She took a mouse, eat it, and went to sleep.
